CAPTAIN HOPKINS DISMISSED For Running Away from the Yellow Fever

at Pensacola. Captain Alfred Hopkins, heretofore commander of the Pensacola navy-yard, has been dismissed from the service for descrition of his post of duty His dismissal was ordered by the President in pur-suance of the recommendation of the court-marsuance of the recommendation of the court-martial appointed to try the charge preferred sgainst him of desertion. The result of the trial was a great surprise to the accused officer and his friends, as they had supposed that sufficient evidence of an extenuating character had been submitted to the court to at least save him from dismissal for the technical violation of the rules of the Navy. The evidence of Surgeon Owen in particular was depended upon to establish a case of justification in behalf of the defense; but the court, the Scoretary of the Navy, and the President adopted the view that the circumstances attending the abandonment of his post of duty by Captain Hopkins could not excuse such a breach of discipline, and the dismissal was accordingly ordered. Captain Hopkins was at the Navy Department Wednesday and held a brief interview with Secretary Chandler, the result of which was to show the dismissed officer that his only remedy now lies with Congress, as his dismissal from the service is absolute, and the Executive can, therefore, proceed no further in the matter. Captain Hopkins has been more than thirty years in the Navy, and he was but recently promoted to a captaincy, the promotion having been made for long and meritorious service.

FIRE-ESCAPES.

An Exhibition at the Government Print ing Office. A large crowd assembled in front of the main entrance of the Government Printing Office, on North Capitol street, Wednesday afternoon to witness a trial of the Spencer fire-escape. This escape is of canvas, but it is constructed with a series of rods or bars, which hold the sides together and rods or bars, which hold the sides togother and prevent the person escaping from being thrown out should a heavy wind prevail. It was attached to the fourth story of the Frinting Office, and many men and boys made the descent with great rapidly and without the slightest injury. It was expected that some of the feunale employes would give the machine a trial, as the manager. Mr. Fairbanks, stated that in exhibiting it at the factories in Lowell, Mass., whole floors of girls had made the descent, but they failed to do so.

FURLIC PRINTER HOUNDS,
Chief Clerk Taylor, and other officials of the Printing Office watched the exhibition with much interest, and expressed themselves as decidedly pleased with the invention. A subsequent exhibition was given by Mr. Fairbanks at the Corooran building, at which Chief Cronin, of the fire denatment, was present and expressed great satisfaction at the working of the escape. Messrs, W. O. Avery and A. B. Burns have secured the agency of the Spencer fire-escape for the District of Columbia and the States of Maryland and Virginia.

Patience" by the Wilbur Opera Troupe, The Wilbur Comic Opera Company had a good house yesterday afternoon at their second presentation of "Olivette." The cast was the same as on Tuesday evening, and the performance went off Tuesday evening, and the performance went off smoothly, frequent repetitions being demanded and cheerfully given. Last night this company gave Suillvan's "Patience" in excellent style, Mr. McCollin taking the part of Humhorne. His rendition of the character was good, there being numerous features of his business that are an improvement on the average Bunthorne. Georgenovas well done by Mr. Conley. Miss Susie Kirwin impersonated Fattence with the same conscientions accuracy that characterized her previous efforts. Mr. Torpay is a new man, and took the part of the Duke excellently. He has a fair voice of tenor quality, which he showed to good advantage in the solo parts. He will make a very desirable acquisition to the soloists of the company. Mr. Brand's Colonel and Miss Marion's Lady Jane were well sung and acted. The minor parts were in keeping with the rest. The chorus was prottily costumed, and in this as in the other operas won the approbation of the audience by their precision and spirit. "Patience" will be repeated to night.

The Horticultural Society. tural Seciety of the District of Columbia was held Wednesday night at German Hall, Mr. John Saul, the president, in the chair. The query box Saul, the president, in the chair. The query box was opened and brought forth the usual crop of valuable and interesting matter. The question, "What is the best method of preserving root crops?" such as potatoes, turnips, &c., provoked a lengthy discussion, and evoked many practical suggestions. Opinions were divided on the best way to prune grages. Mr. Saunders treated the subject at length, and entered into the question of mildew and the best way to prevent it. The suggestion of one member that the decaying leaves should not be removed from the government reservations and jarks, but be left there to afford a protection to the grass was fully argued, but the general sentiment was that it was better to keep the grass free from all decaying vegetative matter. There were several other interesting queries discussed. A splendid exhibit of chrysenthenums adorned the table in front of the president's desk.
